

Oliver Adams

1 Work experience

July 2016 – October 2016: Intern at IBM Research Australia.

October 2015 – January 2016: Intern at Xerox Research Center India.

2011 – 2015: Informatics and computer science tutor at The University of Melbourne, taking Informatics 1, Informatics 2, and Knowledge Technologies).

June 2012 – June 2014: Lead programmer for Aikuma, an Android natural language preservation app (www.lp20.org/aikuma).

June 2009 – August 2010: High-school mathematics tutor.

2 Education

May 2012 – Present

Doctor of Philosophy (Computer Science), the University of Melbourne under the supervision of Steven Bird, later joined by Graham Neubig and Trevor Cohn.

February 2016 – May 2016: Interning at the Nara Institute of Science and Technology under the supervision of Graham Neubig as part of my PhD program.

February 2015

Attended the NICTA Machine Learning Summer School.

July 2014

Attended the 4th Lisbon Machine Learning Summer School.

February 2008 – November 2011

Bachelor of Science, Honours (Computer Science), the University of Melbourne.

2007

Higher School Certificate at the Australian International School, Singapore.

3 Awards

EMNLP 2016 Best Short Paper Award for “Learning a Lexicon and Translation Model from Phoneme Lattices”, with Graham Neubig, Trevor Cohn, Steven Bird, Quoc Do

Truong and Satoshi Nakamura.

Recipient of an Australian Postgraduate Award, a 25,849 AUD per annum scholarship for PhD candidature.

Lead programmer for team Aikuma, which won the 8,000 USD Grand Prize at the 2013 Open Source Software World Challenge.

Received a Google grant of 750 Euros to attend the 4th Lisbon Machine Learning Summer School.

4 Language Proficiency

English (Native), German (Intermediate).